

A Short History of Fake News

Setting the record straight

by Louis T March
ANP News

Being a brief chronicle of the gospel to the gullible...

The NYC and DC based news media serve as the megaphone of the globalist establishment. Their spin is gospel to the gullible worldwide. In the old days, they would report a story, local media coast to coast ran it, and that was the uncontested narrative or “news” from the mainstream media (MSM). Needless to say, MSM knows a thing or two about propaganda.

But all that changed with the Internet. In today’s world, news sources not top-heavy with intel types are read worldwide. Information that MSM buries or barely reports now gets out. The establishment narrative is challenged as never before.

So MSM decided to go after the new media (some of whom even lacked the benefit of PC indoctrination at top journalism schools!). MSM conflated them with online scam artists and smeared the lot as purveyors of fake news. If ridiculous stories about Hillary’s crowd took root on social media, they were dismissed as fake to neutralize truthful less flattering info. (Not so much with fake news about Trump). It was a clever tactic and almost worked. But it backfired.

It backfired because of The Donald. Mr. Trump, whatever you think of him, is not as important as the movement that propelled him. For the first time in America, populism 1) commandeered a national campaign and 2) WON. That was not supposed to happen. I just hope The Donald doesn’t tune us out once he’s in office. The takeaway here is that for the first time MSM lost -- and lost “bigly” per Mr. Trump.

In the midst of this hubbub of hysteria, some of the new media folks decided to investigate fake news for themselves. They uncovered a decades-long pattern of it and aren’t finished yet. Here is just some of what they’ve found:

Walter Duranty writes Pro-Stalin Article

Dead Children at the hands of the Bolsheviks & Stalin. Ignored by Walter Duranty. 10 Million Ukrainian people perished as a result of the Holodomor

In the 1930s NYT’s Walter Duranty wrote glowing reports about life in the USSR, denying the forced starvation of millions in the Ukrainian Holodomor. He knew he was lying when he wrote the stuff. Soviet dictator Stalin loved it. Duranty’s fake news scored a Pulitzer Prize. Neither the Pulitzer Committee nor the NYT will left a finger to rescind it.

In 1980, WP reporter Janet Cook’s touching story “Jimmy’s World” about an eight year old heroin addict

Janet Cook, photo credit politico.com (fair use) in the DC ghetto sparked an outpouring of sympathy. Despite doubts about its veracity, WP sent it along and won a Pulitzer. It was completely fake. At least that Pulitzer was rescinded.

In 1993 the public affairs show NBC Dateline staged a fake crash test with a rigged explosion to demonstrate that in a crash, gas could leak from a GMC pickup’s fuel tank and result in fire. NBC apologized.

Another NYT superstar instrumental in scoring a Pulitzer was Judith Miller, famous for her early scoops on Saddam’s weapons, of mass destruction. Turns out she was spoon fed her bogus “information” and neither she nor her editors bothered to check it out. But it justified the identity of a US covert intelligence agent. Even the NYT had to boot her for that.

In 2003 NYT reporter Jayson Blair was caught plagiarizing and fabricating award winning human interest stories which got tremendous play at the time. He only got caught because he was sloppy. Affirmative action was an issue in how he got hired.

Jason Blair, photo credit Wisconsin Public Television (fair use)

In 2004 CBS News anchor Dan Rather revealed “exclusive information, including documents” proving President George W. Bush shirked duty in the Texas Air National Guard. Then we learned that the documents were in a Microsoft Word font that did not exist when they were supposedly produced. That brazen attempt to swing the 2004 election led three CBS execs to resign. One producer was fired. Rather retired early, though CBS honored him for his service.

Crystal Mangum photo credit ABC News 11 (fair use) Found guilty of second-degree murder in the April 3, 2011, stabbing of her boyfriend, 46-year-old Reginald Daye.

In 2006 a black stripper, Crystal Mangum, with a criminal record washed to perform at a party attended by members of the Duke University lacrosse team. Sensing a healthy payday from affluent Duke students, she cried rape. This was a local crime story, but MSM got hold of it and trotted out the usual “experts” to discuss racism, sexual exploitation, white privilege, misogyny, etc., etc. The hyper-PC Duke educrats presided at somber assemblies where the university community could “reflect” on race and gender. The crooked District Attorney told his black constituents that he was going after the white racist rapists. The story droned on for months, with ceaseless psychobabble about racism and rape. It was all fake. There was no rape.

There was no racism (except against whites). The District Attorney was disbarred. Duke settled with the lacrosse players. MSM made this a national issue, and never apologized for their media crucifixion of some college boys who had not done anything wrong.

For years NBC anchor Brian Williams talked about his helicopter ride in Iraq when hit by enemy fire and forced down. It supposedly happened in 2003, and was finally debunked in 2015 by Stars and Stripes. Williams was demoted, but still pulls in seven figures. On December 8, 2016 he criticized Trump and his Twitter followers for publishing fake news. Really, he did.

Brian Williams

In 2014 Michael Brown was shot by a police officer in Ferguson, Missouri. Brown had just robbed a convenience store and was charging the cop. Soon enough, MSM was spreading the urban legend “Hands Up, Don’t s hoot,” which became a national rallying cry to promote the racist narrative of an unarmed black murdered by bloodthirsty whites. Some weeks later, St. Louis Rams players paraded before the cameras with hands up in a show of solidarity with Brown. All this was based on fake news disseminated by a biased and irresponsible MSM.

On November 19, 2014 Rolling Stone Magazine rolled out a blockbuster story entitled “A Rape on Campus.” It made the headlines because it so perfectly fit the misandrist/racist narrative of privileged white males victimizing vulnerable females. MSM ran with it. The story was a real tear-jerker tailored to evoke righteous anger and PC angst. Again, distressed educrats sallied forth in their sagacity to address the “rape culture” and “rape epidemic” on university campuses. It was all fake – never happened.

Rolling Stones Rape on Campus article photo credit Rolling Stone Magazine & Red Pill Philosophy youtube (fair use)

The latest fake news is about The Donald hiring prostitutes at a Moscow hotel to commit indecent acts to defile – specifically to urinate aka “golden shower” – a bedroom where the Obamas once slept. This whopper supposedly came from British intelligence, and the “information” was so critical it had to be personally delivered by a former British ambassador to Russia to an anti-Trump U.S. Senator who handed it to the FBI Director. This is the deep state at work. While CNN and Buzzfeed ran with the story, even NYT had the scruples not to publish this deliberately slanderous, completely unsubstantiated, unspeakably obscene smear against the President-Elect. When I thought that MSM couldn’t go any lower, they exceeded expectations. Their desperate drive to delegitimize The Donald has them totally unhinged.

Methinks that the MSM’s blood feud with The Donald really kicked into high gear on Feb. 13, 2016 at the South Carolina GOP Presidential debate. Mr. Trump was asked about the run-up to the disastrous Iraq War and responded: “You call it whatever you want. I want to tell you. They lied. They said there were weapons of mass destruction; there were none. And they knew there were none. There were no weapons of mass destruction.”

“And they knew there were none.”

That single sentence was a bridge too far. It was a shot across the bow of the U.S./NATO/Israel hegemon. It cut to the quick of the deep state which has made trillions promoting strife, war and discord worldwide. The corrupt globalist status quo which brought us open borders, outsourcing, and wars without end is truly threatened for the first time since World War II. They will stop at nothing to hold on to power. We hope our new president understands this and doesn’t cave.

We pray for your safety, Mr. President-Elect.

By Louis T March
ANP NEWS